An interesting conversation and discussion took place on the various matters brought under the notice of the meeting by the readers, especially with reference to cinerary urns and cists and past modes of lighting farm kitchens during winter evenings.

The minutes of last meeting having been read, were approved of, and Mr Horne's motion for additional cases for the Museum was unanimously adopted, the construction of the cases being entrusted to Mr A. Munro, house-carpenter, under the superintendence of Mr Smith, cabinetmaker, who is a member of the Field Club and also of the Museum Committee of the Town Council.

Six additional members were nominated.

The meeting then broke up with a cordial vote of thanks to the Chairman.
